

DEPARTMENT OF AQUACULTURE

REPORT ON SKILL TRAINING PROGRAM ON HACCP LEVEL 3 AND ISO 22000:2028 – FOOD SAFETY

Organized by: Department of Aquaculture, M E S Asmabi College

Dates: October 22–24, 2024

Venue: M E S Asmabi College.

Trainers: Aspire Research and Consulting, Kochi

The Department of Aquaculture organized a three-day skill training program in collaboration with Aspire Research and Consulting, Kochi, to provide students with industry-relevant knowledge and certifications. The program aimed to enhance technical and professional competencies critical to the aquaculture and food safety industries.

Training Details

- 1. Highfield Level 3 International Training in HACCP Codex Principles
 - Dates: October 22–23, 2024
 - Content: Students were trained on the Hazard Analysis and Critical Control Points (HACCP) principles, focusing on food safety and quality management systems.
 - Relevance: The training emphasized systematic approaches to identifying, evaluating, and controlling food safety hazards, a crucial skill for ensuring high standards in aquaculture food production.
- 2. Internal Auditor Training on Food Safety Management Systems - ISO 22000:2018
 - Date: October 24, 2024
 - Content: The session covered internal auditing techniques for ISO 22000:2018, which establishes food safety management systems in compliance with international standards.
 - Relevance: The training provided insights into auditing processes and the implementation of food safety measures, essential for meeting industry compliance and regulatory requirements.

Participants

A total of 26 students participated, including:

- 23 students of III B.Sc. Aquaculture
- 3 alumni from the 2018 B.Sc. Aquaculture batch: Nayana T M, Himaja, and Navya Jayan

Technical Instructors

The sessions were conducted by industry experts Ms. Anjaly, Anly C R, and Ruby Salim, who shared their extensive knowledge and practical experience, ensuring effective skill transfer.

Skill Outcomes

- HACCP Training: Participants acquired the ability to design and implement HACCP systems to ensure the safety and quality of aquaculture products, enhancing their employability in food processing and aquaculture industries.
- ISO 22000:2018 Auditor Training: Students gained technical auditing skills and an understanding of international food safety management standards, equipping them to work as internal auditors or quality control professionals.

Relevance to B.Sc. Aquaculture

The training aligns closely with the curriculum, bridging the gap between academic knowledge and practical industry requirements. Food safety and quality management are integral aspects of aquaculture production, making these skills critical for students aspiring to work in aquaculture farming, processing, and export sectors. The certifications received will significantly boost their professional profiles and career prospects.

Conclusion

The skill training program was a highly beneficial initiative, empowering students with the technical expertise and certifications needed to excel in the aquaculture and food safety industries. The Department of Aquaculture's efforts in organizing this program underscore its commitment to fostering industry-ready graduates.
